I. Introduction

Derby Madness was founded in 2005 by Mike Weatherford to promote the sport of demolition derbies in a professional and specialized format. Our mission is to boost the sport of demolition derby into the realm of professional sports that are watched from the grandstands to the likes of NASCAR all the way to a reality series to be watched in families' homes.

Since 2005, Derby Madness successfully completed three seasons of the NAPA Auto Parts Crash for Cash Demolition Derby Series. The series is fueled by qualifying derbies that take place across the Southeast Region of the United States. To be considered for the final show of the series, a driver must successfully qualify at one of many qualifying derbies during the year. To qualify, the driver must be successful in the heat in which they run and make it into the derby ring for the final heat.

During the series, several bonuses are paid for the drivers who qualify the most and who earn the most points throughout the series. This system has created a draw for drivers from several states including Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Alabama. With over 100 drivers competing throughout the year, Derby Madness has proven to be a promising series for demolition derbies.

Recently, Derby Madness was featured on the #1 hit TV show for CMT, Gone Country Season 2. The CMT show hosted by John Rich, from the country music band Big & Rich featured 7 celebrities fighting for their chance to become the next hit artist for country music. This allowed Derby Madness to work with Renegade 83 Entertainment who produced the show and ultimately landed Mikalah Gordon, American Idol Finalist Gone Country cast member, back in Paris, TN for the Final Show of 2008. Also, Derby Madness was featured in a documentary for demolition derbies called "Derby Madness! The Movie", produced by DuMedia Lighthouse. The world premiere of the movie was held at the Krider Performing Arts Center in Paris, TN on March 7, 2009.

Derby Madness promotes demolition derbies through a strategic marketing plan utilizing a grass roots marketing campaign and website advertising. Our sponsors significantly benefit from exposure of their products and services to thousands of dedicated drivers and fans throughout the Southeastern United States. Products and services provided by our sponsors are advertised at all of our events during the series. We saturate the market with information about our sponsors through radio, print, and announcements broadcasted at our events.

In addition to this marketing campaign, we will strategically advance the interests of our sponsors on our website through banner ads. With over a million hits to our website since 2005 and a loyal message board membership in the hundreds we easily direct targeted consumers to your products and services.
